A MIGHTY KNOWING KID

He Tells About the Doings of the Boys in Missoula - The Latest From Livingston.

Special Correspondence of the Standard. MISSOULA, Feb. 7.-Colonel Ramsey returned from the Coeur d'Alenes on Saturday evening. Conductor Spedaker has returned from a three weeks' visit in Minneapolis and Conductor Tom Collins went to Butte last night. Some of the boys say he will not come back alone, but I think they are Wildman and Corbett of the dispatcher's office are practicing with the hope of being chosen as the battery of the Missoula base ball club the coming season.

C. A. Searles of the freight office has been under the weather for a couple of days past, but is out to-day. "Cow Coroner" Faulkner was over from

Helena early in the week. The Montana Commercial company's warehouse, which has been used as a freight depot for some months past, is being vacated to-day, preparatory to the company's putting a large stock of goods

The other night there came a full in bus iness in the dispatcher's office. Eyra Thompson, the night call boy, was sleeping in a chair waiting for orders, and some of the other boys, having nothing to do, were inspired to write samething that looked like poetry after it was written. They took Thompson as their theme and composed the following gem. They are going to get a copy framed and present it to Thompson, our darking. Ezra Thompson went out hunting. Woded through the soft, deep snow, Lugged his heavy rife with him, But he got no game to show.

"Tonimy" is the night shift call boy, Tommy of the golden hair, Tommy of the No. 19 feet, Tommy of complexion fair.

When night came, in Jim Burke's big chair Tommy made his little bed, But Dispatcher K. M. Nicoles Held burning paper near his head,

With a start he did awaken, For his nose was full of smoke, But he found he was mistaken,

Now, when Tommy has a luncheon And the other boys have none, He should open up his basket And let all of them have some.

Then they will no longer josh him, They will always let him sleep, Corbett will wake up the trainmen While angels Tommy's shumbers keep.

Trains are running almost on time on the Coeur d'Alene branch now. The snow plow is running on the divide every day. Switchman Frank Chrisby is one of the best informed base ball men in the city. He used to play with the Oregon team and report games for the Oregonian.

Dispatcher K. M. Nicoles was sick a couple of days last week.

Jim Corbett and his pompadour took in the "Devil's Auction" Saturday night, and when a song was sung about Corbett and Mitchell meeting, he thought he was the person mentioned, and on his return to the depot proposed to clean out the dispatcher's office just for exercise. He did not do it, however.

Operator Bradley says he is getting tired of telegraphing and thinks he will saw wood for a living.

R. G. Penquite of the dispatcher's office thought he could beat a little shell game one of the boys had fixed up for amusement. Indeed he was sure he could beat it. So he bet drinks for the crowd andthen he paid for them.

Night Foreman J. F. Wallace has asked for a day job. The night air does not agree with him. THE CALL BOY. agree with him.

At Livingston.

LIVINGSTON, Feb. 6.—A pleasant event occurred at the K. of P. hall Tuesday afternoon in which all of the railroad boys participated and which sent Night Dis-patcher Brown to Lincoln, Neb., with many pleasant recollections of the generosity and good will of the employes of the Montana division. Mr. Brown resigned his position as night dispatcher last week for the purpose of returning to Lincoln to resume his old position as dispatcher of the B. & M. road, and when it became known that he would leave Tuesday evening the engineers and trainmen who were in decided to present him with a handsome token of the esteem in which he was held by them. A beautiful gold headed cane was procured and the following inscription engraved upon it: "S. H. Brown. From Engine and Trainmen N. P. Ry." After the meeting at the hall had been called to order and the preliminaries arranged, a committee was appointed to wait upon Mr. Brown, the Albemarle, and inform him that his presence was desired at the lodge room. In a few minutes he entered the hall and was called to the altar by Engineer Thorpe. Mr. Brown was at a loss to know whether or not he was to be made to ride the goat through the lodge of engineers until Mr. Thorpe produced the cane, and in a few well-chosen words presented it. assuring the recipient of the esteem in which he was held by the engineers and trainmen of this division and of their wishes for his future welfare. Mr. Brown replied in a happy manner, and the entire party then retired and drank to the health of the gentleman who had been pleasantly caned. Mr. Brown had been a resident of this city but a few months, but during his stay here made a legion of friends among the railroad men and officers, and was one of the most popular men who ever is sued an order from the dispatcher's office.

T. H. Harper, formerly a conductor on this division, is up from Mississippi, having secured a fifteen days' lay off to come up and shake hands with his old associates. Tem is now running a freight in the sunny South but finds that railroading in that section is less congenial than on the Montana division.

J. S. Elliott, of Fort Worth, Texas, who succeeds S. H. Brown as night dispatcher. arrived on Friday, accompanied by Mrs Elliott, and has entered upon his duties. Fireman George E. Jones returned Thursday from a two months' visit with his mother in Oregon. On Saturday he left for Billings, where he will hostle for

Frank Roe, former ticket agent, has been appointed relief agent of the Montana di-vision, and left the first of the week for Three Forks to relieve the agent at that

John S. Shurick, general western agent of the New York Fidelity Accident Insur-ance company, is in the city this week in the interest of his company. He has for-warded proof in the case of C. G. Krohne, who lost both legs in the yards a few weeks ago, and states that the company will im-mediately make full payment of the $2,000 policy held by Mr. Krohne at the time of the accident. This will be good news to the railroad boys who hold policies in that company, as it was stated at the time the accioccurred that the unfor unate man would not receive the full amount on account of his also having a policy in the Standard company. Many of them were distrustful of their policies on this account

THE CASE DISMISSED.

Mrs. Thorne and Her Alleged Paramous

Given Their Liberty. BUTTE, Feb. 6.—The case of the State vs. Frank Danielson, charged with criminal intimacy with Mrs. Josephine Thorne occupied the whole forenoon in Judge Eddy's court to-day. A large crowd was present, including a number of ladies. The prosecution's side of the case had been previously heard. This morning Emmet Clare, the attorney for the de-fense, addressed the court in support of his motion to dismiss the case and dis-charge the defendant on the technical grounds that the state failed to prove that the defendant was unmarried, and also the defendant was unmarried, and also that Mrs. Josephine Thorne, the co-respondent, was a married woman. The attorney introduced a number of authori-ties and precedents to support his posi-tion. The court overruled the motion.

tion. The court overreled the motionwhereupon the usual exceptions were made. Then the defense produced a number of witnesses to show that the defendant was not a paramour of Mrs. Thorne, but only a friend of the family.

It appeared from the evidence adduced for the defense that Mr. Thorne was in habit of beating his wife severely, sometimes, and that she would then flee for refuge and sympathy to Mr. Danielson, who occupied a cabin near the house of the Thornes. This had been at the suggestion and with the permission of the Thornes, and the cabin was on their lot.
All are Swedes, and the defense argued that it was natural for Mrs. Thorne, in her trouble with her husband, to seek the consolation of one from her own country.
It also appeared from the defendant's case that when the Thornes were in need, Danielson gave them assistance. The visits between Mrs. Thorne and Danielson were admitted to be frequent, but it was claimed there was nothing criminal in their relations.

At noon the court adjourned until 1 were admitted to be frequent, but it was claimed there was nothing criminal in their relations.

At noon the court adjourned until 1 o'clock, when the counsel were to be given the opportunity to review the evidence, but by mutual consent of counsel the case was submitted without argument. Judge Eddy took the case under advisement until 5 o'clock, when he rendered a decision to the defendants. He said that the testimony for both sides showed all parties to the suit to be intimately acquainted, but there was no direct evidence of any criminal intimacy, and although it might have been a little indiscreet in the part of the woman to visit the defendant's cabin so frequently, especially during the time her husband was in jail, yet they were both from Sweden and strangers in a strange land, and the court was convinced that the woman was innocent of any wrong. To find the defendant guilty would be to blast the woman's character forever, and might estrange a fond mother from her loving children. The court discharged Danielson and dismissed the case against Mrs. Thorne. son and dismissed the case against Mrs.

Thorne.

Mr. Thorne said after the decision that he hoped to God the judge was correct in believing his wife innocent of wrong. He was asked whether it was true that his was asked whether it was true that his wife was two or three years ago a beer waitress in Butte, but he indignantly denied the statement and said that he had only been in Butte a year and a half. They were married in Ottumwa, Iowa. Mr. Thorne asked to have his attachment suit against Danielson, which was set for Monday, dismissed. He had enough of law, and said he was going to work Monday. Thorne said he hated to believe anything wrong of his wife, but his neighbors had told him so much about what was going on that he had been forced to bring the action against his will. The two children of Mr. and Mrs. Thorne are being cared for by neighbors.

gotten out in safety. Neither the propri-etors nor the attaches of the hotel could give the names of but a few of the guests their personal acquaintances. Then a call was naturally made for the hotel register. It could not be found, although it is not apparent that it had been destroyed. A search was instituted, and an enterprising newspaper man was found making off with it, thinking thereby doubtless to secure a "scoop" on his contemporaries by printing exclusively the list of names, but e was despoiled of his prize and may have to answer to a charge of larceny in the bargain.

A MIRACULOUS ESCAPE.

The Floor Falls Two Stories, Carrying Its

guest who probably had the most narrow and at the same time the most marvelous escape, was M. L. Harmon, a traveling salesman for a St. Louis whole-sale grocery house. He registered at the hotel Saturday night with his wife. "I had a room on the sixth floor," said Marmon,
"and was aroused from sleep by a loud cracking noise and the sound of a whistle which I think was from one of the engines on the elevated road. I opened my and discovered the stairway leading to the lower floors in a blaze. I then went to the window and opened it and there seemed as much smoke on the outside as in the hallway, for the room was soon filled and both my wife and I would have suffocated in the room had we not taken two towls which I soaked with water. These were used to keep the smoke out of our lungs by holding them over our mouths and nostrils. I tried to find a fire escape near the window, but there was none, and I thought at one time we would never get out of the room alive. It was certain death to jump six stories and as it was either it or burn to death, I said to my wife, 'Mattie I am going to shoot you and kill myself. I concluded it would be better to die that way than be burned to death, and as I always sleep with a revolver under my pillow, I hurried to the bed to get it. By this time the flames were coming through the cracks of the door. Just as I was about to shoot my wife, the floor fell with a crash, and we went down probably two stories. The flooring stopped opposite a window and my wife jumped out and lauded on the portico A rope was hanging out of this window, and with this assistance I managed to get down another story, but here I slipped and fell to the portico beside my wife. I picked her up, but was unable to carry her, and was almost suffocated and the fall had injured me. I was endeavor-ing to reach the ladder, when two firemen

SAVED BY AN UMBRELLA.

A Traveling Man's Cool-Headedness the Means of Saving His Life, There was not even a rope fire escape in the room on the second floor which Felix raemer, a salesman for Steinway & Sons of New York, occupied, and had it not been for Kraemer's experience at hotel fires and an umbrella, he probably would be numbered among the victims. "Had be numbered among the victims. not I had a strong umbrella I should either have been burned or killed by jumping," said Mr. Kraemer. "I have been burned out at hotels three times now. At a fire at Warrensburg, Mo., the guests escaped by using an open umbrella to ease their flight from the upper story window. I never forgot it, and since have always been provided with a strong umbrella for any emergency. As soon as I reached the window I opened my strong umbrella and carefully tied up a shawl strap over it so as to prevent it from turn-ing inside out. Then I made a leap. I did not go sailing gracefully out into the air and land lightly on the ground beneath, but I landed without any broken limbs and am all right now. The umbrella partially MISSOULA, Feb. 7 .- On Monday E. A. turned inside out just before I reached the ground and I got something of a jar, but I should think myself lucky if I had escaped with a broken leg, for I never before saw a fire burn so fiercely as the one which consumed the hotel. I ran into the office as soon as I reached the ground. I was the first per-son to get out of the hotel. I cannot imagine how any guests got out alive. I saw Meares and the night clerk in the office. 'For God's sake,' I cried, 'why don't you turn in a fire alarm?' I went to the Hedley house and registered, secured a suit of clothes, which did not fit me, and returned to the fire. Even at that time the fire department had not arrived. Men, women and children at the windows were screaming for someone to save them. I saw two or three people jump from the windows. It was 10 minutes after I returned to the fire before the ladder was raised to any of the windows. I heard there were more than 160 people in the house when I got out, and I can't understand how 20 people escaped with their lives. It will be a difficult matter to convince me that many of them were not roasted. There was a court in the rear of the hotel and many of the windows of the inside rooms overlooked it.

Further inquiries were made during the evening at the West Thirtieth street police station for the following, who are among the missing: Kate Reilly, Eliza-beth Donahoe, Maggie Guilber, May Ryan and Susan Smith, chambermaids. Annie Cummings, Mrs. Van Norden, Comly McLane and wife and O. A. Murphy.
